QUARTERLY MINIMUM DISCLOSURE DOCUMENT (MDD)

FUND OBJECTIVE

The investment objective of the Cell is to achieve capital appreciation over the medium to long term. The Cell is multi-asset flexible fund, investing primarily in global markets. There will be no limitations on the relative exposure of the portfolio to any asset class.

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

The investment policy of the Cell is to create an actively-managed portfolio providing exposure to various asset classes including equity, fixed interest, property and money market. The Cell may invest in securities directly or it may invest in portfolios of collective investment schemes or other similar schemes that provide exposure to the relevant asset classes, or both. Investment performance is targeted through asset allocation, security and portfolio selection.

COMMENTARY

The start of 2024 stands in stark contrast to 2023. Consensus forecasts have shifted from a baked-in recession in 2023 to a "soft landing" in 2024. The threat of high inflation has turned into a debate around the extent of deflation in the US, with Europe's inflation rate already in steep decline. Forecasts for the likely trajectory of the S&P 500 hinge on the degree to which bond yields are expected to decline as inflation in the US falls. Almost all forecasters agree that inflation is headed lower but differ on the rate of change. Some forecast a rapid decline to below 2% by the end of 2024, while others see core PCE only dropping to around 2.7% by year-end. The difference between the two holds the key to both the bond market and the Fed's response. If inflation in the USA were to decline rapidly, the Fed could ease interest rates earlier in the cycle and engineer a "soft landing". Considering that the Fed hasn't successfully engineered a "soft landing" in over 70 years, the odds of one are less than the consensus view is pricing in. Consequently, we are more inclined to a risk-off position in equities, favouring high-yielding cash locally and abroad. US bond yields could rise over the short term as investors adapt to the risks of a more robust US economy. Our key concern for 2024 is a liquidity-driven event.

Transaction Costs are a necessary cost in administering the financial product and impacts the financial product return. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time such as market returns, the type of financial product, the investment decisions of the Cell Manager and the TER.
